MLA EIGHTH EDITION CITATIONS

What’s Different?

The differences between the seventh and eighth editions of MLA are minimal, but the primary difference lies in the elimination of information that is not necessary for a reader to find the source in question. Information such as the location of the publisher and medium (website, print, audio) of the source has been removed, and helpful information like the volume (vol. #) or issue (no. #) of the work have been added to help the reader decipher the citation.

Core Elements (in recommended order):

- Author
- Title of source
- Title of container (website, academic journal, etc.)
- Other contributors
- Version (volume or edition)
- Number (issue number of volume)
- Publisher
- Publication date

Example for citing a book with one author:

7th Edition (the old way)

8th Edition (the new way)

Example for citing a scholarly article:

7th Edition (the old way)

8th Edition (the new way)
